- I acquire, catalog, and maintain analog (slides and photographs) and digital collections for use by faculty and graduate students in teaching. I then support image use in the classroom with training and technical support for classroom technology, digital imaging equipment, image database resources and pedagogical innovation.
 - I jointly implemented and administered two successive image database resources, the homegrown EMC (with Instructional Technology) and commercially-licensed ARTstor (with OASIS and the Libraries). I was instrumental in launching UNC's participation in the ARTstor institutional hosting pilot program and currently support faculty in the use of ARTstor through training, outreach, administrative and technical support assistance, and provide project management for university-wide collaborative digitization initiatives.

- I supervise a staff of graduate assistants and work study assistants, manage an operational budget (excluding payroll), establish analog and digital collection policies, maintain and design collection databases, and provide reference services related to campus image resources and collections.

- 2000 Assistant Curator, "Apocalypse Then"

- With Timothy Riggs, Curator of Prints and Drawings at the Ackland, I selected art works for the exhibition, researched them, designed the exhibition layout, and then co-wrote the exhibition catalog.
